

In 2003, the Washington Metro Area INCOSE Chapter (INCOSE WMA) hosted one of the largest INCOSE International Symposiums in history at the Hyatt Regency in Crystal City, Virginia.

Building upon that legacy, INCOSE WMA hosted one the largest systems engineering events, SEDC 2012, in the United States. The event focused on reducing complexity of systems design and analysis through disciplined systems engineering practices with keynotes from Mr. Stephen P. Welby (Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Systems Engineering, DoD) and Dr. Michael Ryschkewitsch (Chief Engineer, NASA) combined with over 60 presented papers.

In 2014, SEDC featured keynotes from industry luminaries General Michael V. Hayden (Former Director of NSA, Former Director of CIA), Charles F. Bolden, Jr. (NASA Administrator), and Earl F. Weener (NTSB Member, Former Chief Engineer of Boeing).

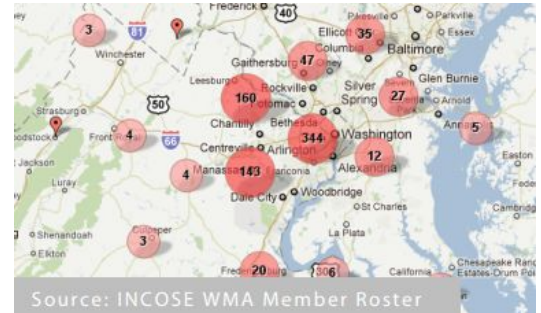

SEDC 2016 will be one of the largest systems engineering conferences in the United States with exhibitors from around the world.
